DUFFY'S DAY ACTIVITY 3: STORY OPENINGS

Lesson Objective

- Use the story openings to write a story about Duffy and the work of SAS.

1. Write a story about Duffy's worst day ever or Duffy's best day ever. Use what you have learned about the work of SAS and the habitat of Bottlenose dolphins in Britain.

Below are some story openings to help you get going.

Choose your location.

- At the beach
- In the sea
- Next

Duffy says,

"Did you know that SAS run a 'Return to Offender' campaign? This challenges companies whose litter is found on UK beaches to put anti-littering messages on their products, to use less harmful packaging and to promote recycling."

2. Now you've written your story openings, what comes next? Why is this Duffy's best/worst day?

You can plan your story using a story mountain like the one below.

Tip: The story mountain is not an even triangle shape: it's much steeper on the downside, because this is the shortest part of the story.
