Creating a waste creature will challenge you to see waste in a new light. Share your monster creations online using the #oceanschool to spread awareness of unnecessary single-use plastics.

STEP 1.

Start a waste investigation in your house / school.

Record the amount of waste you find and collect your creature materials.

P.S we find dressing up and getting into character REALLY helps with an investigation

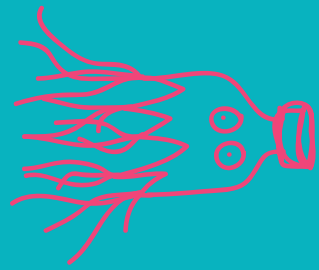

STEP 2.

Gather your materials together and clear yourself a place to build your waste creature.

STEP 3.

Arms/ legs/ tails/ tentacles, what does your creature need? Look through your waste and start picking out creature limbs.

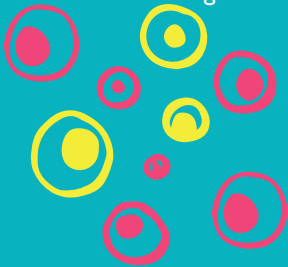

Remember to think about the things your creature will need to survive in UK waters.

STEP 4.

What features will your creature need to stop it producing waste? Can your creature use other creatures waste materials?

Make sure to explain these features to your audience using labels.

STEP 5.

Every creature needs an eye or three to really bring them to life! Your creatures are a symbol for looking at waste through different eyes.

STEP 6.

Take a photo of your waste creature and post it on social media using the tag

#OCEANSCHOOL

Creating a waste creature is much more than just a fun task, by uploading your creations you are showing the world that they too can see plastic waste through different eyes.
